UNSAFE BUILDINGS.—The Lawrence catastrophe seems to have awakened a very general suspicion of the security of buildings in the East. The operatives in one of the large factories located near the scene of the late disaster have stopped work, refusing to continue labor until the building shall have been thoroughly examined. In New York city, the new State Arsenal has been pronounced unsafe, the soldiers refusing to drill there, and, it is said, some of the life insurance companies threaten to cancel the policies on those who attend the drills. We hope some good will result from all this, and buildings in process of erection be made more substantial than cheap.

PAUPERISM IN NEW YORK.—The Governor of New York, in his recent message, directs attention to the rapid increase of pauperism in that State. The message informs us that during the year 1858 relief was granted by the public in two hundred and sixty thousand one hundred and fifty-five cases, equal to seven and four-tenths per cent. of the entire population, at an expense of one million four hundred and ninety-one thousand three hundred and ninety-one dollars and twenty-eight cents. While in the twenty years from 1831 to 1851 the population of the State increased only sixty-one per cent. pauperism increased in the same period seven hundred and six per cent. In 1831 there was one person relieved to every one hundred and twenty-three inhabitants; in 1851 one to every thirty-nine; in 1851 one to every twenty-four, and in 1853 one to every seventeen.

SURPRISE PARTIES.—The editor of the Wood County Reporter is "down" on surprise parties. "Never could see the propriety" of nursing a gang of the biped species and then some dark night prancing down on a quiet, inoffensive family like a flock of locusts. He warns all such off in the following style:

There is no decency about it, and don't you come to maccaroni's house unless you want to get kicked out—we've got no fodder and—little room; we like to see our friends and shall always endeavor to treat them with courtesy; but come few at a time and then because you want to see us, and we'll guarantee you as good as the country affords.—D'ye hear.

THE PATENT OFFICE.—The record of the operations of the Patent Office during the past year, furnishes, as usual, a most satisfactory exhibit of the steady progress of our country in the application of science to the useful arts. During the three quarters ending September 30, 1859, 5,167 applications for new patents were received; 843 caveats filed, and 3,334 patents issued and re-issued. The receipts for the three quarters were $183,538 77, being an increase of $37,554,-87 over the corresponding period of last year. The expenditures were $157,101 14, leaving a surplus on hand of $31,437 73.

RESUMED PRACTICE.—We learn from the Home Intelligencer, published at Mineral Point, Iowa county, that MOSES M. STRONG, Esq., has resumed the practice of the Law in that town. Mr. STRONG is one of the pioneers of Wisconsin and has been connected with the Bar of this State for upwards of twenty years. He is a gentleman of acknowledged talent and much professional experience.

TERRIBLE INDEED.—A few nights since in Brooklyn, N. Y., a family returning home from a ball found an infant in a basket at their door. The child was well wrapped in flannels, but both of its hands were badly frozen, and it was found necessary to amputate them in order to preserve the little one's life. The night was bitter cold and it is a wonder that the child was not frozen to death.

AT THE GRAVE OF CLAY.—A large crowd of persons, attended by a concert troupe, recently visited the grave of HENRY CLAY, near Lexington, Ky. On the hallowed spot a dirge was sung. The ladies of the troupe at first stood in the snow, but the Kentucky gentlemen doffed their cloaks, and, casting them upon the frozen crust, formed a carpet, upon which the women might stand in comfort.

BURNED OUT TWICE IN ONE NIGHT.—A Mr. PRICE, of St. Stephens, in Maine, was burned out of house twice in one night. He owned two houses a short distance apart.—The one in which he lived took fire about 6 o'clock, and his family had barely time to escape to the other. About 12 o'clock that also was found to be on fire and was laid in ashes. The night was bitter cold

A GREAT ARTISTIC WEDDING took place in Baltimore on last Tuesday. MIGNOT, the landscape painter, is the happy man, and a daughter of Dr. HARRIS, of Baltimore, the bride. The artist had with him five bridesmen, among whom were Messrs. KENNETT and SUYDAM.

KILLED BY A BAG OF SALT.—THOMAS BLACK was killed in Cincinnati, on Thursday last, by the falling of a bag of salt thro' a hatchway, which struck him with full force directly on the back, knocking him through the lowering hatchway into the cellar.

A VALUABLE TARGET.—A target company at Sergeantville, Hunterdon co., N. J., presented the Methodist Minister at that place with a target! Upon examination it was found to contain $46 in gold, neatly inserted in it.

IT IS SAID the St. Louis and Chicago Rail road has shut down on the system of dead heads with a vengeance. Only a few days ago the general ticket agent of the road and the local agent had occasion to go to Chicago and were actually compelled to pay their fare

MAGGIE MITCHELL, the actress, during a fencing scene in the "French Spy," on Friday evening, at WOOD'S Theatre, in Cincinnati, was cut on the cheek with a foil, and quite badly, although not dangerously wounded.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—Mr. GARRET GAYLORD, residing near Beef Slough, and formerly of Massachusetts, was found frozen to death opposite Wabashaw City, Mich., on last Wednesday. He was fifty-six years of age.

Railroad Accident—Thrilling Scene and Wonderful Escape.

We have already briefly mentioned that, at one o'clock on Thursday morning last, an accident happened to a passenger train on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, beyond Enon, by which several passengers were injured, but, fortunately, none killed. The widow of the late Senator Linn, of Missouri, and daughter of Judge Delafield, of Memphis, and a dozen others, who were in the sleeping car, were thrown down an embankment of thirty feet, the car turning over several times, once over a stake and rider fence. It took fire and burnt up. A passenger furnishes the Pittsburg Chronicle with the following account of the accident:

After stating that the accident was occasioned by a broken rail, and that the locomotive and baggage car passed over safely, he says: The passenger car first meets the obstruction and is thrown off the track. With its load of human life, it is hurled over and over down a steep embankment, on an adjacent fence. Its inmates scramble out—the fallen stoves set it on fire, and, abandoned to its fate, it is a beacon-light to what follows. Its flames throw over the ice and snow a lurid glare. That car is consumed, and the fence itself is in flames; but, in God's providence, not a single life was lost, and, save with a few bruises only, the passengers escaped uninjured. The sleeping car, last on the train, was, by a severe wrench, severed from the passenger. Carried on with terrible velocity, it struck the sleepers on which the track is laid. It wavered a moment or two, and, suddenly leaning over, its impulses carried it forward, onward and onward, and over the precipice. Down the precipice it turned; leap after leap it took; crash after crash came, broken glass, falling like rain among its occupants, until, jumping over the fence, the car stopped with all its inmates, sixty feet from the fence, within a field. Crash was only succeeded by terror. "Help," was cried, but who was there to help? Those who had escaped the burning car a short distance in front, had gone on to the shelter of the baggage car, still on the track, with a very few exceptions. One of them—not to be invidious—was Mr. George George, of Cincinnati. He, and some others not known, returned to assist the terrified passengers.

Picture to your mind's eye that sleeping car—fallen on its side, at that moment—all prostrate! The lamps extinguished, the smoke of the overthrown stoves filling and stifling the car, added to its gloom, distraction and danger. The cry of fire was raised, and followed by the most terrible confusion, in the midst of which a lady was heard to cry: "Help! my mother will be burned!" The car was now filled with smoke, while all around was so dark that nothing whatever could be distinguished. The passengers knew not where they were, or the extent of the danger. At length the door was found, and a general rush for the open air was made. Some few, however, remained behind, and assisted in rescuing the lady before referred to, and her noble and courageous daughter, from their perilous position.

In the meantime other cries for assistance were heard. A young lad named Eugene Service, only twelve years old, traveling with his widowed mother, finds her under the heated stove badly injured, and threatened with immediate death. Calmly, but promptly, he drew his coat-sleeve over his hand, and raising the fallen stove, rescued his frightened parent from death. Well may she be proud of that boy. She was helped out of the car badly burned, and her teeth knocked out. Another young lady was carried out with her collar bone broken. A mattrass was spread upon the snow, on which she was laid, and she was protected from the extreme cold by coverlets hastily thrown out of the car. A gentleman of Springfield, Illinois, S. S. Whitehurst, Esq., was among the most active in doing good. He was every where, helping every one. When the excitement subsided, he found himself with a dislocated shoulder and otherwise severely injured, and other passengers also suffered much. The lady whose collar bone was broken was a Miss Lonsdale, an actress. No one was killed. I need only add that the injured lady first spoken of was the respected widow of Senator Linn, of Missouri, and that the noble-hearted girl, her daughter, Mary L. Barr.

BUSINESS AT TWO RIVERS.—In spite of the hard times, some of the lumbering firms have, with steady energy and enterprise, taken advantage of the low prices of labor and provisions, and are running the logs into the river with a rapidity never before equalled.

The Chair Factory we learned was in full operation, and the Tub and Pail Factory never turned out more than at present, and there never was a better demand for it. We saw some of it at the store of Messrs. Seamans & Co., which fully deserved the high reputation that it now has. It will be remembered that this ware took the first premium at the State Fair in Milwaukee last fall—a fact which is creditable alike to the manufacturers and the County. The proprietors intend putting in a fine new churn lathe in the Spring. They now turn out pails, tubs, keelers, clothes pins, &c., and supply a large portion of the Northwest. The Foreman, Mr. George H. Albee, is a young man of energy and general intelligence, and if common report be true, is well fitted for his responsible position. The employees are principally young and active men, of educational abilities, and they have a reputation for good habits and qualifications which make them good citizens, and a welcome acquisition to the village.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—We refer to the proceedings of the Democratic State Convention, briefly reported in another column. They lasted the whole afternoon. Joe. Brown and the Administration completely triumphed. The resolutions adopt the Cincinnati Platform with the Dred Scott decision to interpret it; but wisely allow the Delegates to the National Convention to go for Douglas "as long as the interests of the party require!" Gorman, Shields, Robertson and Cavanaugh—the main Douglas leaders—had tried the clean Douglas strength on Wednesday evening at the Fuller House, but were then and there voted down, 34 to 29. Seeing the majority thus against them, as a last resort in order to get to Charleston, they immediately caved, and sold out their principles, Popular Sovereignty and Squatter Sovereignty in the Territories, Little Giant and all, to the Administration, and agreed to go for the resolutions offered by Becker, which completely ignore the first, and damn with faint praise the last.—St. Paul Minnesotian, Jan. 13th.

THE FIRE AT STEVENS POINT.—We cut from the Pinery the following additional particulars of the fire at Stevens Point, an account of which we published last week:

The following parties are sufferers by this calamity: A. H. Bancraft owner of the City Hotel, total loss; Mr. Avery, proprietor of the same, lost part of the same; P. H. Buckley, clothing, saved nearly all his stock; H. Dickson, dry goods and groceries, mostly saved; G. W. Green lost his building and part of his stock of goods; Quinn & Co., lost part of their stock of groceries and provisions; building owned by A. H. Bancraft. No insurance on the above, excepting $1000 on the property of Mr. Green.

AT A SCIENTIFIC MEETING in Edinburgh, a crinoline dress has been exhibited, one-half of which had been immersed in a solution of sulphate of ammonia, in order to test its non-combustibility. On a light having been applied to the crinoline, the part of it which had not been steeped in the solution was at once enveloped in flames, but the only effect which the light had on the other part was to char it. This was considered a satisfactory experiment, and it was stated that as ammonia was only 2d. per pound, it was accessible to the humblest class. It was stated that the crinoline used in the royal establishment was steeped in a totally different solution, but that its cost prevented its general use, and that the cheaper solution was equally efficacious.

LEAP YEAR SLEIGH RIDE.—A score or so of our Winona belles chartered several sleighs yesterday, and calling on our city "bucks," invited them to take a ride to Trempealeau, which invite the fellows joyfully accepted. Arrived at our neighboring town, an excellent supper was ordered, on Good Templar principles, the ladies gal-lantly footing all the bills, save for tobacco and whiskey, to whose exclusion we feel assured the party was indebted for its delightful character and its exemption from every conflicting annoyance. Do it more, fair ladies.—Winona Repub.

THE WAUPACCA Spirit says:—"We learn from private sources that on Wednesday, Dec 37th, at. Hortonville, Outagamie county, a young man by the name of J. Refenberg was shot by L. Collar Four shots were made by the latter, only one taking effect. The ball entered Rafenberg's cheek, and came out of his mouth, taking away a tooth in its passage. Collar had accused Rafenberg of stealing a sack of flour, and the difficulty grew out of this accusation."

THE CITY.

MILWAUKEE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of this Society was held at their rooms, on Saturday, the 7th inst., when the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:

President—ALEXANDER MITCHELL.

Vice Presidents—DR. J. B. MCVICKER, LANSING BONNELL.

Secretary—THOMAS HISLOP.

Treasurer—DAVID FERGUSON.

Executive Committee—CHAS. GIFFORD, HANS CROCKER, I. A. LAPHAM.

The Society resolves to hold two public exhibitions during the coming season—one in the last week of June, and the other in the last week of September; also to hold weekly exhibitions at the Society's Rooms for the benefit of members alone.

The few members of the Society who take an active part in its affairs, are determined to spare no efforts to induce the public to take an interest in it. The Society has thus far proved a source of pleasure to our citizens, and has been the means of creating a taste for the cultivation of flowers, fruits, &c.; and we hope our citizens generally will take pride in helping to extend its sphere of usefulness, and maintain it in a manner commensurate with the wealth, refinement and population of Milwaukee.

LEAP YEAR SLEIGH RIDE.—The first affair of this kind, so far as Milwaukee is concerned, came off on Saturday night. Some fifteen ladies, mostly attendants of the Summerfield M. E. Church, organized a "Ladies' Sleighing Party," under the leadership of Miss M. E———, and invited as many gentlemen to take a sleigh ride. They bashfully accepted. The ladies engaged BUTLER & POST'S elegant four-horse sleigh "General King"—and also another sleigh of a smaller size—and at 6 o'clock p. m. called for the bashful swains.

The drive included a trip to the Layton House, from thence to Mount Pleasant, the residence of Col. STEVER. Here the whole party alighted and were hospitably and sumptuously entertained by Col. S. and his estimable lady. Before leaving, the company was called to order and a Chairman appointed. Speeches were made and resolutions passed, expressive of the high appreciation of the kindly attentions received by all, from the Col. and Mrs. S., and by the gentlemen from the ladies, to all of which appropriate responses were made by the parties interested. At 11 1-2 o'clock p. m., the ladies summoned the gentlemen to the sleigh, and shortly thereafter deposited themselves at their several residences.

The gentlemen are loud in their praises of their lady beaux, and declare they will hereafter accept similar invitations without any bashful hesitation! Some of them enthusiastically declare they wish Leap Year would come, at least, every other year. The company was select, the weather auspicious, and the whole affair a decided success.

CUTTING UP HOGS.—AT LAYTON & PLANKINTON'S Pork House, three of their men cut up yesterday 129 hogs in one hour; at this rate, ten hours per day, they would cut up 1,290 hogs daily. L. & P. have had employed from the 1st of October about sixty men engaged in the pork and beef business, and have slaughtered and packed over 4,000 cattle, and have out since the commencement of the pork season between 23,000 and 24,-000 hogs, with what hogs they have in their house.

THE STEAMSHIP MILWAUKEE.—We had the pleasure, yesterday, of a visit from our friend, Capt. Cross, of the steamship Milwaukee. The Captain has stuck to his ship, like a sailor, ever since her accident at Grand Haven; and at length enjoys the satisfaction of seeing her safe in the dry dock at Chicago, where she will undergo whatever repairs may be necessary. The Captain reports the Milwaukee in good condition, after all her encounters with the winds, the waves, the sand-bars and the ice. He hopes soon to have her in running order again.

SANDS' MILWAUKEE PALE CREAM ALE is on draught at ALLEN'S, on Main street, two doors north of Wisconsin street. Everybody and his friends are advised to call on ALLEN and try it. It is a little ahead of any ale ever offered to the people of this City. ALLEN has a very neat place and keeps the best of everything in the saloon line. Call on him.

A BEEF-FITTING CONTRIBUTION.—Messrs. HORTON & FOWLER, produce and commission merchants, made a very fat gift to the Soup House of four quarters of beef. That was a noble example for some one to imitate. Every thing sent to the Soup House will be judiciously disposed of.

YOUNG BACHELOR'S PARTIES.—The next assembly of this series will be held to-morrow night at the new and handsome Masonic Hall. We do not know of any established dances for young folks, this Winter, that have been so well enjoyed as these same "Young Bachelors' Parties."

CONCERT OF EMIL WEINBERG.—The violinist WEINBERG will give a concert at Albany Hall on the 20th. He is too well known in this community to need much puffing.—His abilities speak for themselves in the most charming manner. We hope the concert will be a complete success.

A LARGE HOG.—Messrs. SALOMON and POST, of this city, received from a firm in Mayville, Dodge County, the other day, the largest hog received this season, raised by Mr. RICHARD LUDLOW, near Mayville. It was only eighteen months old, and weighed 580 lbs.

FIRST WARD PUBLIC SCHOOL.—The Grammar Department of the First Ward public school, under the charge of Mr. A. MARKHAM, will be re-opened for the reception of pupils, this (Tuesday) morning, at the usual hour.

SECOND WARD PUBLIC SCHOOL.—In consequence of repairs being needed in one of the furnaces of the Second Ward public school, the Grammar and Intermediate Departments will be closed until to-morrow (Wednesday) morning.

GODEY FOR FEBRUARY.—We are indebted to TUNIS for "Godey's Lady's Book" for February. It is well-filled with plates and interesting reading matter. TUNIS, on Wisconsin street, has all the monthlies.

RUNAWAY.—A horse attached to a buggy belonging to Dr. CASTLEMAN, yesterday morning dashed down Main street, and ran into a team belonging to the Graefenberg Company. But little damage was done, and the animal was finally secured.

TEMPERANCE.—DR. CHARLES JEWETT, of Boston, editor of the Alliance will lecture this evening at Albany Hall. Dr. JEWETT is ranked among the most popular of Temperance speakers.

WE WOULD CALL THE ATTENTION of our story readers to the first instalment of an original tale which appears on our third page this morning.

Councilor Rosebeck on the New City Hall.

MR. EDITOR OF THE SENTINEL:—I take the liberty to request you in behalf of justice to all that are concerned in the old Market House project, to publish my answer in reply to the article published in your yesterday morning's issue, where a gentleman strained his brains to the utmost in order to write a slanderous statement against me, and as I have stood a great many abuses already, I am willing to stand a great many more. I am not always willing to answer every slanderous attack, for some of them are beneath my notice, and the intelligent community know how to judge them without a reply from me; but in this case it is different, and, as the whole city is interested, it is my duty to reply. In the first place, the cry was raised that the Common Council Chamber was in great danger and fire all around the building, and move as fast as possible, and as the city owned the Market House, and for a trifling expense could be made very comfortable, and no rent to pay, and on such representations the Board voted unanimously in favor of the project; also a Committee was appointed, to which I belonged. Councilor NOYES was Chairman of the same. He, and others, lived close by where everything was handy for them to see to; the report was made, signed by all except myself; I came rather late to the session; had a great deal of confidence in the committee, had no time to read it, so I asked the Chairman if everything was right; he assured me it was. On these conditions I signed it, but after everything was considered safe, and a resolution passed that the Comptroller should get up a plan and get bids, as regards the cost, and report back to the Common Council for the acceptance of the same, as in this case the business is usually done, for this reason no one could object; the plan and bids have never, as yet, have been presented to the Board for their acceptance.

A large petition of very respectable citizens praying the Common Council to oppose that project, on account of involving the city into a large expense and trouble, in which they saw no end. Now, sir, I hold that every member has a right, in case he has been deceived by misstatements, to look into the matter more minutely, and in case it is necessary, to change his vote, or more for a reconsideration. No honest man will doubt, only such as have selfish motives in view. Again, there was not an honest man present who heard me say the Market House was on the east side of the river; but as one gentleman tried to make it the topic, he was answered by two very able and experienced gentlemen, from the east side, that he was wrong, and convinced every citizen present, except the self-interest seekers.

Second, the two lots belonged to M. L. MARTIN and the First Ward, is also false. I stated that lot six is claimed by M. L. MARTIN, for which he has a law suit pending in the Supreme Court, for twenty thousand dollars, and lot five was given to the First Ward for the sum of one dollar for market purposes, as I believed, deeded by M. WARD and wife, by attorney JOHN S. ROCKWELL for use of the First Ward, dated Nov. 17, 1851, recorded Feb. 11, 1852. For power of attorney, see vol. 34 of Deeds, p. 75.

Third, I stated that the building stood in part on the sidewalk, and it was too narrow, too short, too low, and in every way too contracted, and never belonged to the city, for the reason that it was in part deeded to the First Ward, and that they could not show that the rent for market stalls, theatre, saloons, etc., was controlled by the city, or a dollar of the money went into the city treasury, but into the hands of the Councilors and Aldermen of that ward, only and always considered under their control; and the ten thousand dollar bonds given for that Ward by the city, for the reason that they would sell better, in order to enable the First Ward, at that time, to build the Market House; and the bonds were charged to that Ward, and the city held it responsible for the same. Also, the Ward had paid the interest thereon, until, through hook and crook, some fine financiers had played a smart trick, and took the money out of the city instead of out of the First Ward fund, and let the matter rest; and as I summed up the ten thousand dollar bonds with the twenty thousand dollars claim of M. L. MARTIN, seven thousand five hundred dollars rent, for which the city had contracted with Mr. J. B. CROSS, the four thousand nine hundred dollar contract with Mr. MCGARRY, with some other expenses, besides breaking the covenant in the deed with Mr. WARD, it would cost the city over forty thousand dollars.

Fourth, I never stated that Mr. KILBOURN had a room to let, and no thinking man will believe such a slanderous remark. Any sane person knows that from ten or twelve rooms are necessary for all the city offices. On request I stated simply my report to the Common Council where Mr. J. B. CROSS offered all the offices the city needed for eight hundred dollars, and Mr. B. KILBOURN twelve hundred dollars for the same rooms; whereupon Mr. KILBOURN stated that he never thought that they would accept his offer, but simply made that proposition because others had done so. Further, that I stirred up the bubble in the Fourth Ward or in any other Ward is also a slander, as no honest man can say so. That I have been invited to the meeting is true for the reason that the whole Common Council were requested to be present, and on the first proceedings the whole Common Council was unanimous in the Market House project, as stated before, and now are divided, but I have been singled out for the reason that when the second committee was chosen, one from each Ward, of which I was chairman, I handed in the report signed by four of us, stated to the President that I would hand it in on condition that all those who stated a great deal about the project, and never could bring in any proof of their statement, in order to give them the opportunity to prove their statement correct and my report wrong, as it was a measure of vital importance, therefore the Board should have time to vote understandingly, and to the satisfaction of the tax-payers; but as Councilor SCHULTE moved to lay it on the table, the President very readily put the question, for both of these gentlemen are the principal movers in the measure, consequently it was lost by one vote, which could not have been the case at the next meeting. There are a great many smart men in this city, always ready to cover up instead of explaining matters as they really exist. I suppose my slanderers belong to this class, and to the same clique that on pretence in former days belonged to the new harbor clique who stated that the new harbor could be built for seventy-five thousand dollars and now has cost the city about two hundred thousand and not fully completed yet. Do they know anything about the claim of HAZELHOUCK & Co., which amounts to seventy odd thousand dollars?

Gentlemen, a little brass, and a little more brow-beating, and a little more bluffing, then you may go it stiff, but remember the judgment of the sovereign people.

JOHN ROSEBECK.

TELEGRAPH!

REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS, FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Arrival of the Europa.

SACKVILLE, Jan. 16—3 P. M.

The steamer Europa, with dates from Liverpool to the 31st ult., via Queenstown, arrived at Halifax yesterday morning.

The line not being in working order, the news was to be expressed to this place, but owing to the express rider waiting some hours at Halifax, in the hope that the wires might resume operation, he did not arrive here until 4 o'clock this morning.

The news is of considerable interest.

The steamer Julius Jura, for New York direct, was to leave Liverpool at about the same hour as the Europa.

The steamer Edinburgh, from New York, arrived at Liverpool on the evening of the 20th ult.

The date for the meeting of the European Congress seems as yet doubtful. It was reported that Austria, Spain and Naples will not send plenipotentiaries until the Pope is represented, regarding which doubts have been stated. Russia rejects the programme advocated in the recent French pamphlet, "Pope and Congress."

It was rumored there were serious difficulties in the French Cabinet.

The rumored threatened withdrawal of the Pope's nuncio, is officially denied.

Lord Macaulay died in London on the 28th ult., of disease of the heart, after a fortnight's illness.

A ro boat had capsized in the Mersey, at Liverpool, and 22 lives were lost.

The Paris Bourse had fallen 1 per cent., but the fall was partly recovered, and the rentes closed on the 30th at 69f. 20c.

FRANCE.—A rumor had obtained currency that the Pope's Nuncio had threatened to demand his passports, on account of the recent pamphlet; but the Paris correspondent of the London Post pronounces the rumor untrue. An official denial was also posted in the Paris Bourse.

The Milan Gazette announces that the Duke of Modena has advanced with troops towards the frontiers of Modena. Part of his army was already in one of the frontier towns.

The French pamphlets had been translated into Italian, and largely circulated in Romagna.

The London Herald's Paris correspondent speaks of difficulties in the French Cabinet, and says Persigny's prolonged stay in Paris is not unconnected with Walewski's uncertain tenture of office.

It was reported that Prince Napoleon will be shortly appointed Grand Admiral of Italy.

A Rome despatch reports that a lengthy interview had taken place between Cardinal Antonelli and the French Ambassador. The latter has received from Paris some explanations destined to the Papal government on the subject of the recent pamphlet.

Marquis Vila Marina had declined the Governorship of Milan, and Count Gillean had been appointed instead.

The Marquis Vila Marina goes as Ambassador to Naples.

The Lawrence Disaster.

LAWRENCE, Jan. 15—8 P. M.

The body of L. F. Branch was found today, and the four other bodies previously recovered were identified. Services appropriate to the occasion were held in all the churches in the city this morning. The work on the ruins is suspended to-night.—The Mayor has issued the following:

In view of the great calamity which has fallen from a cloudless sky like a thunderbolt, crushing the city with a misery which no earthly power can raise, shrouding it with a cloud of anguish which no human hand can dispel, binding it in chains of woe which despair cannot break—I recommend and earnestly beseech that on Tuesday next all the inhabitants of Lawrence abstain from their avocations and labors; that they set apart that day as one of prayer; that they then go to their respective places of worship to join in those ceremonies which the occasion demands, and there publicly ask of God that he would temper our affliction with mercy; that he would restore to health those now languishing in pain and suffering; that he would provide with a father's care for the orphan and widow; that he would comfort and support those bereft of husband and wife, parents and children; that he would so order his signal destruction of life and property, that good may come out of our great evil, and that our experience may teach wisdom throughout the land.

THE SENTINEL.

DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY & WEEKLY.

RUFUS KING, EDITOR.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 17, 1860.

A New Volume.

The seventeenth volume of the Sentinel commences with the present number. The Sentinel was the first daily started in Wisconsin, and thanks to the favor of the public, still maintains its lead. Notwithstanding the "hard times," its circulation was never so large as it is now, and is steadily on the increase. As the current year will witness the result of the Presidential contest for 1860, we shall study to keep the readers of the Sentinel fully posted as to the progress of the struggle, and shall endeavor to do our part in the advocacy of the Republican cause and candidates.

Matters at Washington.

Congress has been in session upwards of six weeks, and, thus far, has accomplished nothing. The House is not yet organized and until organized, no business can be transacted. The responsibility for this inexcusable waste of time and money attaches solely to the Democratic minority. They have not strength enough to elect a Speaker themselves; but can prevent any election, as long as they see fit. It is only necessary, for this purpose, to filibuster; and "filibustering" is their favorite game.

On the very first day of the session, they designedly threw a firebrand into the House, with a view to postpone, or defeat an organization. There was no occasion, or necessity for any such proceeding. It was purely partisan and factious. It was done "with malice prepense and aforethought." The instigators had no other motive than to "kick up a muss." Their single and palpable object was, to dragoon the Representatives from the Free States into yielding once more to Southern dictation. The scheme has ignominiously failed. The FREE STATES stand fast. So should they do, while the Capitol stands and the Union survives. The North has had enough of this brow-beating. We are ready and willing to treat our brethren of the Southern States as equals, but not as MASTERS.—If they desire to fill the latter character, it must be on their own plantations. If they are content with the former, they are welcome to the homes and hearts of the North.

There are four parties in the House of Representatives; no one of which can command a majority of the whole number. This is not an unusual occurrence. Twice before in the history of Congress no one party has been able to secure a majority of the aggregate vote. In each of these instances, the remedy was the same, viz: the adoption of the plurality rule; resulting, in the one case, in the election of the Democratic candidate, HOWELL COBB, now Secretary of the Treasury, as Speaker; and in the other, in the choice of the Republican nominee, N. P. BANKS, now Governor of Massachusetts.

Why is not the same rule adopted now?—In every Congressional District, and in every State of the Union, this rule prevails. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes is declared elected, though that number may not be a majority of all the votes cast. If, following both Democratic and Republican precedents, the House of Representatives should adopt this plurality rule, an organization would be effected on the first ballot; and the wheels of government, now effectually blocked, would again revolve.—Who is it that stops their course? What party obstructs the harmonious working of the federal machinery? What great, overshadowing, NATIONAL interest demands that the General Government should be reduced to a state of paralysis, to satisfy its unwarrantable exactions? There can be but one answer to these questions. It is the Pro-Slavery Democracy—the Sham Democracy—who are solely and wholly responsible for the existing condition of affairs. It is they who inaugurated this contest between Free and Slave Labor. It is they who broke down the barriers which our fathers erected against the extension of Slavery. It is they who sought to force Slavery upon the free territories of Kansas and Nebraska. It is they who passed, and who uphold the Fugitive Slave Act. It is they who procured, and who defend the Dred Scott Decision. It is they who palliate the atrocities of the African Slave Trade. It is they who commenced the agitation of the Slavery question in the present Congress. It is they who clamor for the dissolution of the Union, if they cannot nationalize SLAVERY and sectionalize FREEDOM, in the American Republic!

Do they suppose that the Free North can be silent and submissive under provocations like these? Do they suppose that we have forgotten the teachings of our fathers? Do they suppose that the memories of Concord, Lexington and Bunker Hill, of Saratoga and Yorktown, no longer linger in our midst? Do they suppose that the Declaration of Independence and the Preamble to the Constitution of the United States, are neither read, nor remembered by the People of the Free States? If so, they much mistake the descendants of the men, who won our Liberties, framed our Constitution and cemented our Union. By that GREAT CHARTER the North is content to stand. We ask no more; we will take no less. The South is welcome to manage its domestic institutions in its own way; but when it seeks to extend Slavery over the Free Territories of the Republic, the North is prepared to say, with one voice, "Thus far, but no farther."

"A NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS."—An Irishman, by the name of JAMES CRANDALL, is the latest victim of Southern proscription, mentioned in the newspapers. He fell under suspicion, at Augusta, Georgia, was seized, imprisoned, tarred and feathered, and finally banished, upon the charge of having uttered Anti-Slavery sentiments, while intoxicated. Upon his arrival in New York, CRANDALL told his story. He went South upon the strength of a contract, which contract was broken by the other party. He sued for damages, and lawyers failing him, undertook to manage his own case. After long delay, he obtained judgment; he then could get no officer to serve the writ of attachment, and finally lost the whole amount. CRANDALL positively denies the charge of being intoxicated, or of ever uttering an Anti-Slavery sentiment, and says that the story was fabricated by one of the men against whom he held the execution, for the purpose of avoiding payment! This is the way in which the South pays off the Irishmen of the North for work done in one section of the Union, and political services rendered in the other. We hope that both parties are pleased with their bargain.

THE TRUE DOCTRINE.—While Disunionists are uttering their threats in Washington, and in small assemblages elsewhere, it is refreshing to read such expressions as the following, which was adopted by the Republican Convention in New Hampshire:

Resolved, That the Republican party is pre-eminently the champion of the rights of the States, the principles of the Constitution, and the integrity of the Union; that while it seeks to vindicate the rights and uphold the interests of the North it will neither encourage nor permit the smallest encroachment upon the rights of the South; that while it regards Slavery as a wrong to the enslaved, and inimical to the best interests of the whole country, and will by all peaceful and constitutional means oppose its extension, it proposes no war upon it in the States where it exists, but will defend those States in the enjoyment of every privilege guaranteed by a common Constitution.

The party which stands upon such grounds is the only one which deserves the name or conservative, and to which alone the country should look in the future.

THE SIOUX INDIANS.—The Minnesota papers complain of these Indians, who, to the number of 2,300 are scattered through the "Big Woods." They have killed 2,000 deer cutting off the supply upon which many of the poorer whites relied.

Chief Justice.

MR. EDITOR:—A correspondent, signing himself "State Rights," in your Saturday's issue, discusses two points in regard to the election of a Chief Justice, on which I wish to say a few words. He insists that the Republican party, shall make a nomination, and doubts whether Judge SMITH should be the nominee.

With regard to the first point, we incline to agree with him, that the party should make a nomination; but we do not agree with him, that a failure to nominate would insure the election of a Democratic Chief Justice. That Judge DIXON will be the Democratic candidate, without any formal nomination, we well understand. That he will receive some Republican votes, particularly among Republican lawyers, we expect. No small portion of the latter class voted for Mr. LYNDE instead of BYRON PAINE. But the Republican masses are true to the doctrine of State Rights, and are not controlled by lawyers.—Let the issue by fairly made, as it will be if the Republican candidate is one whose position is known and read of all men to be on the side of State Sovereignty, and against the despotism of the Fugitive Slave Act, and Liberty will count its majority by thousands. For every Republican vote cast for DIXON and Federalism, we shall gain five Democratic votes for the State Rights candidate.

Whether formally or informally nominated, to the second point I answer, Judge A. D. SMITH is the strongest candidate the Republican party can propose. There has been a great change of opinion, within a year, among both the American and German Republicans who opposed his nomination a year ago, and many of the leading men among them who opposed his nomination then, are in favor of supporting him now.—Probably no one was more decided against his nomination, last year, than the writer of this article; not because we deemed him unfit for the place, but on account of the peculiar temper of the public mind. But from a careful comparison of views among those who opposed his nomination last year, and from the peculiar circumstances in which we are placed by the decision of Judge DIXON, we have come to the settled conviction, that Judge SMITH is the man to lead us to victory in the next judicial contest.

"State Rights" is not posted in regard to the position of the German Republicans. If there is any principle to which they are devoted, it is that represented by Judge SMITH, as embodied in his opinions on the Fugitive Slave cases. He is also mistaken in proposing to place Judge SMITH in the U. S. Senate, instead of on the Bench of the Supreme Court. His place, lest in his own judgment and in that of his friends, is on the Bench rather than in the Senate chamber. He has won distinguished honors there, both for himself and for the State. No objection can be brought against his fitness for the Bench, which would not apply with equal force to his fitness for the Senate, so that "State Rights," in admitting his eminent qualifications for the Senate chamber, waives all objection to his qualifications for the Bench, if any there were in fact.

We assert, then, that for eminent and tried ability, for proved devotion to Freedom, on the Bench, Judge SMITH is without a peer in the State. There is no man whom the Republican party could nominate who would begin to come up to his standard, whether you regard the measure of his ability or the character of his back-bone. He will not be frightened from his propriety by ministerial arrogance or unconstitutional mandates. He will maintain the integrity and sovereignty of the State against all encroachments upon its rights and liberties, whether from Federal authority or the violence of kidnappers. His re-election at the present crisis, would be an announcement to the world, that Wisconsin takes no steps backward towards Despotism, but is firmly pledged to

UNION AND LIBERTY.

From Madison.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

MADISON, Jan. 14, 1860.

The indefatigable Clerk of the House, Mr. L. H. D. CRANE, has already got out his statistical table. Some of the items may be of interest to the readers of the Sentinel. The oldest members of the Assembly are Messrs. HESK, of Waukesha, and HORTON, of Jefferson, each of whom is 64 years of age. The two youngest are Mr. MCKAY, of Lafayette, who is 23, and Mr. GOODWIN, of Winnebago, who is 24 years old. There are 53 farmers in the House, 11 lawyers, 9 merchants, 3 physicians, 4 millers, 2 civil engineers, 1 blacksmith, 1 banker, 1 architect, 1 bricklayer, 1 house joiner and 1 printer. Thirty-three of the members, rather more than one-third of the whole number, were born in the State of New York; 25 in the New England States, 6 in Ohio; 3 in Pennsylvania; 2 in New Jersey; 1 each in Virginia, Illinois and Indiana. Twenty-five of the members are of foreign birth; Ireland claiming 5 representatives, Scotland 2, England 6, Germany 7, Poland, Sweden and France each 1.

The Speaker, this morning, announced the Standing Committees for the Senate. All parties appear to be pleased with their composition, and give credit accordingly to Mr. LYON. By Monday, or Tuesday, the Legislative mill will begin to grind. Let us hope that the grist will prove healthful and palatable to the people.

Mr. HORN, of Ozaukee county, who writes himself down as a "Douglas Democrat," following the example set by his political yoke-fellows at Washington, commenced this morning the "agitation" of the slavery question; having introduced, for that purpose, joint resolutions relative to the late decision of our Supreme Court in the Glover Rescue case. I do not think that Mr. HORN is greatly concerned in mind about this decision, but he evidently supposes that some political capital can be made out of it. He is quite welcome to try, provided that it does not interfere with the regular business of the session. I hope that the Republicans of the Legislature will resist all attempts to drag in irrelavent topics for discussion, which would only protract the session and add unnecessarily to its expense. That there are some Democrats anxious to do both, and then charge the responsibility upon the Republicans, is no secret here. Let our friends be on their guard against these and other designs of the enemy. MILWAUKEE.

THE SOUTHERN DRIFT.—A Western M. C., who was recently applied to by one of his constituents for some seeds from the Patent Office, writes in reply: "We have no garden seeds this year. Sixty thousand dollars was appropriated, but it has been expended in tea plants for our Southern brethren, and there are no seeds for our folks. I am sorry, but the tendency of things is Southward."

THE WEATHER IN LOUISIANA.—The New River (Ascension Parish) Acadian of Thursday, 5th, says:

The cold weather has killed the turnips, mustard, lettuce, cabbage, and other hardy winter vegetables—an occurrence never before known in this country. A barrel of rain water in our yard was frozen on the 10th ult., and nothwithstanding the mild weather since, the ice did not melt till last Tuesday.

From gentlemen who have recently been hunting in the settlement, we learn that immense numbers of dead cattle were found by them, in the neighborhood of Black Bayou; in the language of one of the hunters, the woods are full of dead cattle. The cold weather is supposed to have killed them.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF SIDEWALK CLEANING.—The occupants of buildings on Main and other streets, are this morning engaged in efforts to remove the ice from the sidewalks. A and B occupy contiguous stores, with a street entrance between them to the upper stories. A cleans square up to the front line of his tenement, and B does the same as to his, but leaving between them a ridge, of greater or less height, which nobody cleans, but which everybody comes in contact with, and occasionally stumble over.—Query—Whose business is it to remove that barrier to free pedestrianism?

A HORRIBLE DEATH.—Mr. Woodman who, as we have it from the Dayton Empire, was attacked with hydrophobia and was not expected to long survive, died on Tuesday night. The Journal of Wednesday gives the following particulars of this melancholy case:

Mr. W. seemed to be in possession of his faculties, spoke of his approaching death with calmness, received his friends with much warmth of feeling, soliciting the prayers of every one, saying that he trusted God had forgiven him his offences. He died, as already stated, at six o'clock last evening.

He suffered terribly during the continuance of the spasms, which came upon him at intervals, and as he felt them coming on, called his sons to hold him, but never manifested the slightest disposition to do violence to any one, but, on the contrary, showed the most affectionate disposition toward any one who approached him. During most of the time from Sunday morning till Tuesday night, he paced the floor of his room, conversing with his family and friends, assuring those about him that they might approach him without fear, as he would not injure them.

When, to test beyond the possibility of a doubt the nature of this disease, a glass of water was brought to him, he uttered a most unearthly shriek, and was seized with a terrible spasm. Mr. Woodman was a powerful man, and it was feared that his sufferings would be greatly protracted, but they were mercifully shortened, and he lived but three days after the development of the terrible malady.

A FOG BANK MISTAKEN FOR A GREAT FIRE.—An incident of rather an unusual but amusing character occurred in Newton last evening. A little before 6 o'clock, by the bright light of the full moon, what was supposed to be a dense column of smoke was seen to ascend from the vicinity of Newton Lower Falls. The conclusion reached was, that a large fire was raging there, and simultaneously the fire bells began to ring, the firemen turned out with their engines, while sober citizens tackled up in a hurry and started off for the scene to witness the conflagration.

From the numerous villages of that extensive town, men and boys, on foot, on horseback, and in carriages, were seen hurrying forward, while the foremen of the various fire companies encouraged their men to greater speed, that they might have the coveted honor of putting the first water on the raging flames. Even distant Waltham saw the cloud, and one hundred or more of her brave sons manned one of her splendid engines and started at "two-forty" to aid their neighbors in extinguishing the fire.

But suddenly, and in an instant, as it were, the cloud seemed to move, and while the excitement was still at its height it quickly vanished, causing the panting crowd to rub their eyes in amazement. It soon became apparent that the whole cause of the fire alarm was a dense cloud of fog which had suddenly rolled up from the Charles river. Upon the fact becoming apparent, there was a hearty laugh and a general "turn-about," and in a short time the town resumed its usual quiet Sabbath evening aspect.—Boston Trav., Jan. 9.

THE Nouvelliste, of Rouen, narrates the following curious anecdote:

"M. Botta, son of one of the professors at the Academy of Caen, undertook a journey to China, and lived for some time at Canton. This was prior to 1830. He used to wear there a beaver hat in the European fashion, which suited him so well that he was unwilling to change it. However, when it was worn out, he applied to a Chinese hatter, and, giving him all sorts of directions, told him to make another like it. The man went to work, and in a few days brought a hat of the required shape, not of beaver, but of some stuff very soft and glossy. M. Botta, on his return to France, preserved this curious specimen of Chinese workmanship, and wishing to have it repaired, intrusted it to a hatter, who examined it carefully, and was much struck with its mode of fabrication, which was altogether new to him. He examined the article with the greatest attention, and a short time after the present fashion of silk hats came in. The inventor patented his discovery, and made a large fortune, but held his tongue about his debt to the Chinese tradesman, who, seeking a substitute for the beaver which he could not procure, devised the plan of replacing it by the light tissue of silk which at present almost universally constitutes the outward covering of the modern hat."

SOME of our "Merchant Princes" have every disposition in the world to become patrons of art, and to make themselves as renowned as Lorenzo the Magnificent, by their munificence; but they don't know how to do it. Their habits of business, which induce them to obtain everything as low as it can be purchased, interfere deplorably with their ambition. There are, to be sure, some honorable exceptions, among whom I will not be invidious to mention the name of Mr. Walters, the wealthy distiller of Baltimore, who gladdens the artists of our hearts by his visits, and orders pictures with the liberality of a prince, and the judgment of a connoisseur. One of our own Lorenzos recently paid a visit to the studio of an artist, and was so charmed by a half-finished picture on his easel that he immediately ordered it to be finished for him, permitting the artist to name his own price. The merchant called frequently to see the painting, and when it was finished, ordered it home. In a few days after it had been sent, however, he sent word to the artist that his wife did not like the picture; and, therefore, he declined to keep it, and requested the artist to take it away. The painter, however, instead of sending for the picture, consulted with his lawyer, and the result was that the "patron," to avoid a lawsuit, concluded to pay for it.—N. Y. Tribune.

THE GREAT ELOPEMENT CASE IN ENGLAND.—I see the scandal which has been floating about London clubs and drawing-rooms for the last few days—of Mrs. J. H. Garney's elopement with her footman—has now found its way into the Times. There can, therefore, be no motive for keeping back a few facts connected with the case. The lady in question was the daughter of the late Richard Gurney, who left her a fortune of nearly £25,000 a year absolutely secured to herself. She was considered the richest married woman in England. All this fortune she is free to dispose of as she likes; in enriching, if she chooses, the fortunate flunkey whom she has chosen for the partner of her flight. Her injured husband has already taken the first steps for obtaining a divorce, but such is the pressure of divorce business before Justice Cresswell's Court, that his solicitor has been informed (I am told) that fourteen months are likely to elapse before the case can be brought to issue. Meanwhile the affair is a great blow to the large and highly respectable Gurney connection—so well and widely known for its philanthropic activity, as well as its wealth.—Cor. of the Manchester Guardian.

PIKE'S PEAK PRICES.—It may be interesting to parties who contemplate emigrating to the gold region, and haven't much of the spelter to travel on, to first learn to live when they get there. The following is the latest report:

At Denver City, flour from the States sells at $16 per 100 pounds; that from New Mexico at $1 less. Corn meal is retailed at 12c per pound; bacon at 25c, lard 30c; butter $4 per pound, and milk at 15c per quart.—Molasses and whisky each bring $3 per gallon. Corn, shelled, 10c per pound. Lumber $80 per thousand. Nails from 30 to 60c per pound; bread 15c per pound; fresh beef 10c per pound, and tallow 50c. The cheapest articles in the market are venison and gold dust; the former bringing $1 per quarter, and the latter selling at a drink of whisky per pinch.

Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia!!!
What is it? How Cured?

DYSPEPSIA IS OUR NATIONAL DISease—weak stomach, feeble digestion, distress after eating, costive habits, bilious conditions. How many suffer with it and its attendant symptoms of low spirits, bad taste, coated tongue, obstupified head, and attacks of the headache! Yet how few know how to cure it! Generally, because the bowels are constipated, resort is had to cathartics, or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathartics, whose only office is to weaken the digestion and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system.

But HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC DYSPEPSIA PILLS—a simple medicated sugar pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases, and is done simply by improving the tone and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result good appetite, regular habits, a clear head, and buoyant spirits. Such a medicine is a gem, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.

Price 25 cents per box, with directions. Six boxes $1.

N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions, and twenty remedies, in large vials, and morocco case, $5; do, in plain case, $3. Family case of fifteen boxes and book, $7.

These remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address,

MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

DON'T FAIL TO PROCURE MRS. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. It has no equal on earth. It gently facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing inflammation—will allay all pain, and is sure to regulate the bowels. Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and relief and health to your infants. Perfectly safe in all cases.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skillful Female Physicians in New England, and has been used with never failing success in millions of cases.

We believe it is the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in children, whether it arises from teething or any other cause.

If life and health can be estimated by dollars and cents, it is worth its weight in gold.

Millions of bottles are sold every year in the United States. It is an old and well tried remedy.

PRICE ONLY 25 CENTS A BOTTLE.

☞ None genuine unless the fac simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

Sold by Druggists throughout the world. Office No. 13 Cedar street, New York.

Sold in Milwaukee by John Rice. jel3d19dw&ewly

THE PUBLIC BLESSING WHICH IS now so universally admitted to exist in Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters, is every day demonstrated by their astonishing efficacy in the cure which they are announced to cure. All the complaints of the stomach and bowels, weakness of the digestive organs and of the system generally, bilious and liver affections, night fevers, head aches, piles costiveness, consumption, rheumatism, scurvy, impurity of the blood, or blotched and sallow complexions, soon yield to their curative properties. A single trial invariably secures them the title of the best family medicine now before the public. For sale by the proprietor, W. E. MOFFAT, at his office, 335 Broadway, and by Store Keepers and Druggists generally. oct15l82dtwawly

LADIES' LUGGAGE.

How happy is the single life
Of all those priests and monks
Not one of whom has got a wife
To bother him with trunks,
And bandboxes, a load too great,
For man or horse to bear,
Which railways charge for, over-weight,
And cabs ass double fare.

Fell care, as with your bride you post,
Distracts your anxious mind,
Lest this portmanteau should be lost,
Or that be left behind:
Her baggage as you travel down
Life's hill, weighs more and more,
And still, as balder grows your crown,
Becomes a greater bore.

Outstretched by Fashion vile and vain,
Hoop-petticoats, and vests,
New British females, to contain,
Require no end of chests.
To which bags, baskets, bundles, add,
Too numerous to name,
Enough to drive a poor man mad,
A Job with rage inflame.

The cab keeps swaying o'er your head,
With luggage piled above,
Of overlarm you ride in dread,
With her whom you should love;
Then you, the station when you gain,
Must see that lumber stowed,
And fears about it in the train,
Your heart and soul corrode.

Thus does your wife each journey spoil
Of yours that she partakes,
Thus keeps you on the fret and broil,
Your peace completely shakes.
With all these boxes, all her things,
(How many?) to inclose,
The fair incumbrance on you brings
A wagon-load of woes. Punch.

[Written expressly for the Daily Sentinel.]

TWENTY STEPS TO ONE WOMAN'S HEART.

"Ho! ho! my puppet-show!
Ladies and gentlemen, see my show!
Life and the world—look here, in truth
Though but in parvo, I promise ye both!
The world and life they shall both appear;
But both are best seen when you're not too near;
And every lamp from the stage to the porch
Must be lighted by Venus from Cupid's torch."
SCHILLER.

CHAPTER I.

"I moved, and could not feel my limbs
I was so light—almost,
I thought that I had died in sleep
And was a blessed ghost."—COLERIDGE.

"John am I mad? am I delirious? is'nt my head turning? Haven't I been raving, John?"

"No sir, 'pon honor," said John, tenderly, as he arranged the furniture and gathered up the scattered articles of toilet from about the room.

So I turn my face over to a cool place on the pillow, and begin to count, for the hundredth time, the seven gray spots in the wall paper. Three long weeks counting those spots; listening to my heart beat; shutting my hot eyelids when it was broad day, and opening them when it was taper-lit night. A lithe mind imprisoned in a helpless body, fighting the ugly shapes of despair that swarm like vermin, sustaining itself from day to day on the unfailing food of the past, and the self-raised promises of the future.—A subtle medicine that, which men call Hope; compounded by the mind in the inward laberatory and administered in such impalpable doses. Ay! as potent as subtle; now an excitant, now a sedative, now an anodyne.

"John, has my Aunt arrived?"

"I beg your pardon," said John, turning his back towards me; but I, that is, I did'nt exactly understand you sir."

"Has Mrs. Rutland arrived?"

John acted strange. I thought he was growing deaf, and I thought perhaps I was dreaming.

"John, come here to the bed side—there, what makes you so nervous? Sit in that chair. I want to convince myself that we are both sane. Did not Mrs. Rutland go to Augusta for her health some weeks ago?"

"Yes, she did," answered John.

"Ah. I am right! Well now, John, tell me whether Mrs. Rutland is home again."

John folded his arms, and then unfolded them, moved his chair a trifle away from the bed, and immediately moved it back. He also labored under a bronchial affection and could not clear his throat.

"Yes sir, ahem! that is, begging your pardon. You are right about her going away, but she did not come back, for you see—well to be plain, sir, she's dead."

"Dead!"

"Yes sir, begging your pardon for my plainness, I told you all about it at the time and thought you understood it, for you cried like a child, and the day of the funeral I sat here and you asked me all about it."

Dead! Buried a week ago! Incomprehensible sounds. And all through the funeral and period of desolation I had been cheating my senses with falsities. I had witnessed my own death, and saw myself laid out as another person and while the natural horror of dissolution held me in torments, I, with that strange duality which one possesses in certain dreams, had lain in bed and talked with John and applied all his information to the spectral catastrophe of my own.

Then came the sad rehearsal of the story, how my Aunt had been hurried home to die. The several gradations of apprehension, despair and bereavement, the ghostly sequel of mourners, and coffin and hearse, all carried to my tender brain with a suddenness that left no room for feeling. I was glad when John left me. I wanted to think upon it undisturbed: to ponder, and ponder in all the freshness of the calamity.

It was long before the "realizing sense" satisfied me, and when I had gradually grown into the full consciousness of all that had taken place, the doctor came. He placed his cane against a chair and came towards me, rubbing his hands and looking so much satisfaction that I involuntarily stretched out my poor, withered arm, not to bare my pulse, but to receive the congratulatory grasp.

"Ha! ha! Right side up at last—yes; a little pain in the temples—yes—mere nothing. Appetite coming round; I thought so. We'll have you on your feet in a week—yes!"

What a thrill of joy that voice awoke; every word seemed to have a ring as though the air was clearer, and it assimilated itself with my hopes in an undefinable but happy manner. The sweet verse from Hood that Mary repeated to me afterward, conveyed not half the poetry of those few sentences from medical lips. When the doctor went away, my spirit rose and floated on the stream of sunlight to the outer world. I tasted the fresh air in anticipation, and feasted my eyes on the hearty throng of bustling people in the broad day.

"Where is Chartsey and Greenway and Clinton?" I asked myself. And there was a certain other individual?—Ah, hers I dwelt. The "other" personage was a young lady, and the number of silly and unanswerable questions I asked myself in regard to her was prodigious. Has the circle of gayety and flirtation, which she wore like Jupiter does its luminous ring—been dimmed by my absence? Then I said "nonsense," and when I smiled in self-derision I felt my shrunken cheeks drawn across the bones of my face with singular tension. It was not a pleasant thought to know that the little world of my own with its all satellites had been revolving regardless of my extinction. Why should they enjoy themselves as well without me? Then that keener selfishness reversed the picture, and made a satisfactory report of much solicitude—many anxious enquiries and many attempts to see me. It was a consolation to know some trivial part of the social machinery had been temporarily disarranged by my disorder. If man is an atom in the vast aggregate of creation, his soul will never admit it. There is only one aspect of himself ever self-presented, and that aspect makes him the motive power of innumerable other atoms: the focus of all the surrounding light. I cannot conceive of that humility which regards itself as an isolated worm, wielding no influence and leaving no trail. This vanity—or call it what you may—which makes the soul regard itself as the principal and all others around it as dependencies to a certain extent—is a wholesome endowment to offset the really miserable insignificance of man.

"I was a habitue of the gayest circles; was one of a select number of spirits who attended on excitement. Who followed in the wake of fashion without being carried away by the current; who enjoyed life with zest because it was full of beauty, and pleasure and piquancy; who thought they were too intellectual to be sensualists and too independent to be useful. Careless, adventurous fellows, now in the arena, tilting at happiness—now spectators, lounging over the spectacle ever presented in the metropolis. But I had been stricken down from an altitude of social enjoyment: hurled into the gloom of a sick room. Dungeoned by fever and with distorted fancies for jailors had rehearsed in the intervals of pain the brightness of the preceding months, only to make the future more dark and impenetrable.

That morning when my uncle came to my bedside with his old, familiar smile of benevolence and easy good nature, he noticed the newly lighted fires in my eyes and responded to the hope that met him, with a fervent sympathy.

However, I noticed immediately that he came with another intent than to compliment or condole. He drew a chair up to where I lay bolstered, and after a few preparatory sentences said:

"Lem, I am going to Europe!"

"What do I hear! going to Europe?—When?"

"Immediately."

"And Mary?"

"Mary accompanies me, of course. This is rather sudden to you, Lem, but not to us. However, you do not seem very much surprised!"

"I can't very well comprehend the whole force of such a circumstance at once, uncle. Such an event necessitates a complete breaking up. So far as I am concerned, the destruction of a home and the loss of all my best friends. My surprise, to do the matter justice, needs to work over night."

"I can easily imagine, my boy," he continued, "That the suddenness with which the few terrible events of the last month have been made known to you must indeed be nothing but a series of shocks, and I would not at this time afflict you with any more intelligence, which might be better deferred, if it were not imperative under the circumstances. The physician proclaims your recovery, at least from the more violent dangers, and it be comes necessary to inform you of our arrangements."

Here my uncle saw fit to get up and walk to the window, an act of indecision which reminded me painfully of John, and I braced my nerves to hear the next startling announcement.

After picking his teeth a moment, he resumed, advancing towards me.

"You probably know, Lem, that the property in Westchester, which I at one time spent so much money upon, belonged to your Aunt."

"Yes," I answered, wondering what was coming; "that is if you allude to Lazy Lake, I always supposed so."

"I do," he continued; "And I now have to inform you that your Aunt, just before she breathed her last, signified as her wish that it should be given to you.

I repeated the words "given to me," mechanically. My Uncle proceeded—

It's not an unworthy gift, and being the bearer of it Lem, I shall presume to accompany it with the true parental love I bear you, in the shape of admonition. I don't know that it would be just entirely, to attribute your recent sickness to youthful folly, but your past course has been very far from that of prudence, my boy. Your association with the young men of the town, I fear, has injured your taste and habits. The excitement of pleasure swallowed up a higher ambition, and a love of gayety and dissipation begun. It would be very far from my duty or intention to advise you as I am about to do, were your health and physical prospects as they were formerly. I should by all means point you to a life of self-exertion and toil; but as it is, I shall recommend you to retire to Lazy Lake and recruit your health for a year; I will not say recruit your morals, Lem, but you understand me. In two weeks you will be left dependant entirely upon those who cannot take the interest of relatives in you, for associates; and it is not because I think you too susceptible to wrong impressions, but because I know young men will often make false steps through the hallucination of enjoyment and independence, which years of carefulness will not recover.

I know this by experience—that my solicitude prompts me to speak to you as my own son.

"At Lazy Lake you will have ample opportunity to recruit, and at the same time, if you are able, to recover that locality from its second wilderness and thereby benefit yourself pecuniarly. I shall be gone, probably, a year, but there is a possibility of our never meeting again,—a possibility"—he repeated, seeing my looks of surprise, "and I hope you will think over what I have touched upon."

"But, my dear uncle," I said, "you do not start yet for two weeks."

I thought that he appeared somewhat confused as he answered: "Certainly not, but I thought the occasion a good one to say what was on my mind."

"I shall certainly profit by your advice," I returned; "and I can assure you, your wishes fall upon soil made most fruitful indeed, of resolutions, by sickness. Lazy Lake shall be a moral as well as phsical snug harbor."

He came and took my hand, and seemed affected.

"Sickness, Lem, will never stir up the heart like the destitution Death leaves. Perhaps I don't feel the sympathy for you that I ought, because I am so much in need of sympathy myself."

Then were many words of affection passed between us, and when he left me, he said:

"It will be as much a matter of convenience to you as myself, to allow the furniture and household goods that are here to remain at Lazy Lake until we return."

I could not divest myself of one impression, for some time afterward, which was that my Uncle seemed strangely precipitate in making arrangements, and in offering me advice which had that final air of one on the very eve of departure.
